CHASSELL - High school teacher, Mary Markham, received a $500 grant from Energy Works Michigan - Greening Michigan Classrooms, the Chassell Township Schools Board of Education learned Monday at its regular meeting.

Some of the things to be done with the grant money include craft kits for the elementary using recycled materials, canning materials to make salsa, applesauce and other items will be incorporated in some classes, and creating a recycling program through the service learning class, among others.

"We have a domestic arts class and we'll be canning local fruits and vegetables," Markham said. "We'll also be making craft kits for elementary school teachers containing recyclable items such as paper rolls."

The class also focuses on recycling and the grant will go to pay for gasoline mileage to transport recycling items to the recycling center.
